The role of the HR department has evolved, and as teams see their budgets shrinking in response to recent events, they need to be more strategic to support organizational wellbeing. Technology solutions exist to increase efficiencies and drive all aspects of your people strategy, but how do you know which one is right for your organization? With a myriad of choice available in the market and the rapid pace of change in the HR technology landscape, it can be difficult to keep up. Join Gallagher's HR & Benefits Technology Consulting team as we outline trends driving change, a risk evaluation framework to help you navigate the market and the truth about what you're really buying from a service provider.

Learning Objectives

- Explore the current HR technology market landscape
- Identify key risks to consider when evaluating HR technology
- Learn about HR technology trends and what's driving them
